124 graduates celebrate four years of serving, learning, competing and cheering - WE ARE DONE

By Karlin Andersen & Katie Tarrant
Editors in Chief

As our time on campus draws to a close, we the Class of 2014 would like to share some reflections on our identity as members of the Marist community so that those of you who don't know us very well (and those of you who know us a little too well) might get to know us better before we say goodbye. We are the Class of 2014, and we are...

Conected. The alumni who led the third Metanoia said it best – this class is one of the closest they had seen in years and teachers and students all agree. “Transfer students” aren't seen as classmates who came late or are separate from the rest of the class, it seems like they have always been here. While everyone has his or her defined group of friends, it seems like you can eat lunch with or hold a conversation with anyone and not feel like an outsider. It could be attributed to our small class size or the “We Are One” motto that is so intrinsic to our dynamic, but no matter the cause we are a close, connected, and compassionate community.

Legacy. Every class can claim they left a little bit of themselves on campus, but how many Marist grads can say they have one of their own forever embodied in bronze? The statue of Clark Morton represents that through our work on retreats, our mentorship and leadership of the underclassmen, the thousands of photos we took, and our participation in interclass competitions and many other activities, we will be remembered. We are another part of the Marist Legacy. We have left a mark on the staff and students we have known during our four years and left our mark on the Marist campus itself.

Athletes. Marist has always been known for excellent athletics and we never let that tradition falter. Throughout our four years we helped to secure eight state titles, one Oregonian Cup and we are sending six student athletes to play at the collegiate level.

Spartan Spirit. It was once feared that the Spartan cheering section would soon become a distant memory, but through the work of a loyal student section the senior class helped to revive the school's Spartan spirit. In true Marist fashion we tried to be the best support squad we could be, and while our teams felt the Marist love, the exceptionally enthusiastic cheering landed us in a few Register Guard articles and letters to the editor. But this development only inspired creative signs at football games and a boisterous student section next to the basketball court.

Survivors. From support groups at 2 a.m. for Ferrari papers and focus problems alike, to griping about the Cento for weeks on end, we survived everything AP classes and college applications could throw at us.

One class but many parts. Despite our different ethnic, spiritual and family backgrounds we come together every day under the same roof to learn, play and discover new things about the world and ourselves. This is most clearly seen at Mass when 124 unique lives intersect for a short while to sit and reflect on whatever it is we each believe. We are all individuals but when we come together to cheer for our teams or fill the gym with singing we become one class.

For Others. Besides completing 8,100 service hours and hundreds more for CLC, Retreat Team and mission trips, we raised money for Project Starfish, donated cans for Stove Team International and raised over $40,000 for Children's Miracle Network through the Mr. Spartan program. Every individual has their own set of beliefs and principles, but Marist has instilled in us a few beliefs that we can all stand behind as a class: serving others, being open to others and learning from others.

2Dimensional. We are so much more than what is seen on paper. Aside from our work in the classroom, we are athletes, entertainers and leaders. We performed a dozen plays and musicals; held many jazz, rock band, and choir concerts; founded, supported, and participated in a variety of clubs; and helped to usher in the class of 2017.

0The number of Homecoming Class Dance competitions we won, but we don't talk about that.

1Week and one day from now, we will file into the gym for the last time. Dawning cap and gowns we will make our way up the stage to shake hands with Jay Conroy and smile for our last Lifetouch photo after receiving our ticket to our futures.

4The number of years we spent at Marist learning, bonding, stressing, problem-solving, laughing, sharing, leading and growing. Our time here has prepared us, not only for the next four years ahead us, but for all the years to come.

We are the Class of 2014!

“HAVE A GREAT SUMMER MARIST”

ASB President Ben Schepengerdes reflects on his time in office at Marist and bids farewell to the Marist community

“Good morning Marist High School.” These are the words we spoke every morning to greet Marist students and faculty and it’s been an honor as your Associated Student Body President to serenade you with my partner-in-crime vice president, Garrett Stollar, each day.

What a year it’s been. Who could forget Snowpocalypse 2014 when we missed an entire five days of school? Or when Senior Harry Zhou wowed the audience with his angelic voice at the talent show followed by a spontaneous standing ovation from his fellow seniors?

Some of my personal favorite memories are the Mr. Spartan Pageant and driving to Taco Bell with Garrett Stollar in the 20 minute break on block day and still being on time to class. This is a great way to test time management and driving skills. Just kidding... kind of.

Although the Stollargerdes era may be coming to a close, the student body looks to be in small, but good hands next year with President Weymouth.

Even though I will be gone next year, there are elements of Marist that will stick with me forever. The parts of Marist that I will miss the most are the community and the retreats.

The best advice I could give to any Marist student as a graduating senior would be to live fully. Yeah, academics are important, but YOHSO: You Only High School Once. Remember to stop and live life outside of the library/ARC.

All in all, it’s been another fantastic year at 1900 Kingsley where the Marist legacy continues to flourish. Thank you all for everything you did to make this past year so exceptional.

“Have a great day Marist.” Stollargerdes signing off.

INTRODUCING... THE CLASS OF 2014

Sarah Akers

“A horse is a projection of people’s dreams about themselves - strong, powerful, beautiful - and it has the capability of giving us escape from our mundane existence.”
- Pam Brown

Next year at OSU, Sarah will combine her love of animals and science by majoring in animal science. While at Marist, Sarah enjoyed spending time with her friends in and outside of the classroom. She especially enjoyed Erin Cramsey’s and Olivia Deschaine’s rendition of “Love is an Open Door,” along with her time in Pat Wagner’s AP Biology class as it is her favorite subject to study. In ten years Sarah hopes to be a successful veterinarian.

Karlin Andersen

“Today me will live in the moment unless it’s unpleasant in which case me will eat cookie.”
- Cookie Monster

Karlin will make her Aunt’s wish come true next year by moving to Washington to attend Whitworth University. After taking AP Language & Composition and Jon Nuxoll’s history classes along with being a newspaper editor, Karlin has decided to major in English or journalism with a minor in history. Karlin loved being a part of Retreat Team and the Mr. Spartan program. She will miss eating lunch in the courtyard with her friends and her free fifth adventures with Katie Tarrant and Kriscia Rivas.

Drew Anderson

“Just do it.”

Next year, you will find Drew at the University of Oregon, preparing to someday take over his father’s business. As a Duck, Drew hopes he will have the chance to play lacrosse – a sport that he loved playing while at Marist. When reflecting on his time at Marist, Drew fondly remembers his time in Bill Ferrari’s literature class and Drew’s advice to underclassmen would be to be themselves.

Maegan Anderson

“To the world you may be one person; but to one person you may be the world.”
- Dr. Seuss

Next year, Maegan will be attending Oregon State University to study dentistry. Maegan participated in many activities outside of her classes including her favorites: playing basketball for all four years and being a Mr. Spartan coordinator. If she could pass on one piece of advice to the underclassmen, Maegan would tell them to take their time, because high school goes faster than you think.

Taylor Anderson

“Live each day as if it’s your last”

Taylor’s experience in Walt Fox’s street law class inspired her plan to major in criminology or psychology next year at Northwest Christian University. Outside of class, Taylor enjoyed spending time with her friends and teammates while playing soccer and tennis. While Taylor has many memorable moments with friends from Marist, including time with Kriscia Rivas and Erica Landers, she is looking forward to meeting new people next year at NCU.

Justin Banks

“I’ve won as many Oscars as Leonardo di Caprio.”
- JJ’s Resume

Though he has yet to decide his plans for next fall, JJ hopes to someday study engineering and avoid 8 a.m. class whenever possible. Some of JJ’s favorite memories of high school come from his time playing football because it was chill and he will really miss his team next year. Though he has few regrets, JJ wishes he had refrained from using the phrase “YOLO.” When he imagines his life ten years from now, he sees himself building a time machine.

Sadie Bernard

“Don’t think outside the box. Think like there is no box.”

While at Marist, Sadie enjoyed June Miller’s ecology walks and learning about the Earth and its creatures. She plans to continue that learning at Oregon State University, where she intends to major in something involving animals. Sadie’s favorite classes were sophomore year literature and Film Crit. with Ben Rain along with art classes with Lex Schmidt. Sadie is looking forward to living in dorms next year and advises underclassmen to branch out and get to know everyone in their class.

Caleb Blaser

“Anything worth doing, is worth doing well.”

Caleb loves spending time outdoors hunting and fishing which has led him to study fish and wildlife sciences at Oregon State University this coming fall. Caleb is excited about leaving Eugene and having new experiences while in college. His favorite teacher was Ryan Moser because he pushed Caleb to work hard.

Austin Bosworth

"It's not whether you get knocked down, it's whether you get back up."
- Vince Lombardi

Austin will be bringing his hard-working attitude and compassion to a new community in New York at the College of the Holy Cross. Someday, Austin hopes to become a corporate lawyer and work in Manhattan. His favorite memories are of playing lacrosse especially the time they beat Churchill in a double overtime at home. Known as "Boz" to his classmates, Austin helped to capture many memorable moments through his work in photography class and advises underclassmen not to blink or they will miss something.

Garrett Brous

"In the scope of things life is good."

Garrett's favorite class was AP Physics with Ryan Moser because he made positrons seem more exciting than they actually are. He intends to use his scientific knowledge to earn a pre-med major at Gonzaga University, with the goal of being an anesthesiologist. Garrett also enjoyed telling "Nux Nux" jokes in Jon Nuxoll's classes. Outside of class, Garrett enjoyed playing soccer and cheering at other sporting events because that's when he felt the sense of community, something he will miss most about Marist. In spite of this, he is excited about the freedom and new experiences college will bring.

Eric Bullock

"It's not who I am underneath, but what I do that defines me."

Eric is looking forward to leaving home and experiencing a new sense of freedom while studying computer engineering at Oregon State University. Eric's favorite memories at Marist are of the different retreats he went on and of becoming closer with his group of friends. He also enjoyed running track even though it was difficult. In ten years, Eric hopes to live in his own house with a super-computer he will build.

Jessica Buser

"Understanding breeds compassion."

- Albus Dumbledore

Jessica will be taking her love of science labs and the skills she developed in AP Biology class with Pat Wagner to Oregon State University to study microbiology and/or bioengineering. Jessica greatly enjoyed her time at Marist and participated in a variety of activities including theater, choir, petanque, and will miss the security and familiarity of the Marist campus. In ten years, Jessica hopes to be working for NOAA and working towards earning her PhD.

Zach Caprai

"Live as if you were to die tomorrow. Learn as if you were to live forever."

- Mahatma Gandhi

Zach enjoyed playing lacrosse and football during high school but will shift his focus when he heads to Oregon State University this fall to major in electrical or computer engineering. He is looking forward to doing less homework and having more free time next year. He will miss having Father Dave as a substitute teacher, and advises underclassmen to not post too many selfies.

Tori Carlson

"Tori is really cool..."

- Alyssa Whalen

Tori is looking forward to moving out and exploring the world beyond high school which she will do next year at the University of Oregon while majoring in business. Her favorite class was American Literature with Beth Wirth, which she took in her junior year. She would have liked to break the "no sweatpants" rule at Marist and advises underclassmen to stop clumping in groups in the middle of the hallway.

Jeff Carr

"Why so serious?"

Jeff is excited to encounter a new outlook on life through his work in the Air Force next year. Jeff's classmates know him as a singer and actor who starred in many theatre productions during his time at Marist. Some of Jeff's favorite memories come from his time in theater, including an awkward yet hilarious kissing scene with then-sophomore John Kerns. Jeff liked theater because it gave him a chance to express himself in a way other classes did not and he enjoyed being taught by Tony Rust.

Tyler Castile

"Thank you Google, Wikipedia and whoever invented copy and paste."

Tyler and his endless supply of novels and sarcastic humor will be traveling to Oregon State University next year to study engineering with a focus on aviation. Tyler is looking forward to taking classes in subjects that really interest him, but will miss the community he has found at Marist. Some of his favorite high school activities were playing Xbox in the music room during lunch and spending time with his friends. Tyler hopes to one day become ruler of every part of the known universe.

Dante Castille

"I'm the one who has to die when it's time for me to die, so let me live my life the way I want to."

- Jimi Hendrix

Next year, Dante will be studying at the University of Oregon and, while he does not have a specific career goal yet, he hopes to be happy in whatever job he chooses. Dante will miss playing lacrosse and football and taking Bill Ferrari's literature class because it was a course in which he gained practical knowledge. In ten years, Dante hopes to be living life to the fullest and will have no regrets about his time at Marist except for not having more tattoos.

Josh Colasurdo

"I'm Rick James."

- Rick James

Josh will be taking his interest in science to the University of Portland next year where he will study biology with the goal of entering the medical field. While he especially enjoyed sleeping through many of his classes, Josh will miss chemistry and AP Physics with Ryan Moser. You may find Josh in a forest in ten years with his hair grown out.

Stephanie Coulombe

"Yes, the past can hurt. But the way I see it, you can either run from it, or learn from it."

- Rafiki

Christian Leadership Class was one of Stephanie's favorite classes at Marist because it taught her skills she will use for the rest of her life. While working on her "Monday project," Stephanie was able to work with children at local schools, a passion she will be continuing to explore while studying early intervention and special education at the University of Oregon. Stephanie is looking forward to the freedom that college brings but will miss being with her track & field teammates, and being in Toni Cooper's journalism classes, which were her favorite.

Erin Cramsey

"Don't be delicate. Be vast and brilliant."

Erin will be bringing her boisterous laugh and flannel shirts to Oregon State University next year. While she is unsure about where she will focus her studies, she is looking forward to joining the OSU lumberjack team. Her favorite activities at Marist included freshman Welcome Week, going on retreats, and getting to know her peers and underclassmen.

Micaela Crawley

"Yesterday you said tomorrow."

Micaela is looking forward to showing her shoulders next year at Lane Community College and will decide on her major once she finds a subject she is truly passionate about. Micaela enjoyed being a keeper on the Marist girls soccer team, but her favorite activity was being a Mr. Spartan coordinator because this experience allowed her to touch lives and be a heroine in her own community while working with her Mr. Spartan family. In ten years, Micaela hopes to be married, happy, raking in the dough, and possibly living in Aruba, Jamaica.

Lexi Cross

"Isn't it funny how day to day nothing changes, but looking back everything is different."

- C. S. Lewis

Lexi will truly fly next year as a member of the University of Oregon's acrobatics and tumbling team while she works towards a degree in business. Lexi enjoyed giving back to Marist through Retreat Team and CLC, and will always treasure the moments she spent with the family she developed here at Marist. She enjoyed Bill Ferrari's AP Language & Composition class and encourages underclassmen to never be in a hurry to grow up.

Rose Cully

"Life begins at the end of your comfort zone."

Rose will be studying at the University of Oregon next year and will combine her aspiration to travel and her interest in business into a possible major of international business. She is looking forward to not having to wear jeans to class every day and to visiting many different countries. Rose enjoyed her literature class with Bill Ferrari and taking "Tcoop$$s" photography class. Her favorite memory was when fellow senior Siena Hacker nailed herself in the face with a soccer ball after kicking it off the goal post.

Spencer David

"There is only one person who could ever make you happy, and that person is you."

- David Burns

Spencer will be entering the "college of hard knocks" next year as he uses his extensive mechanical knowledge and interest in robotics to work in his family's mechanics shop. Outside of his favorite classes, AP Chemistry and AP Physics with Ryan Moser, Spencer loved the experience of being a Mr. Spartan contestant and giving back to his community. Spencer will miss the friends he made through robotics club and the camaraderie he felt during football games but is looking forward to growing a beard. He hopes to own his own small business in the future.

Olivia Del Guercio

"If you do ten funky things, you can break one rule of math."

Olivia will be taking her quiet nature and contagious laugh to Scripps College next year to study chemistry or computer science. While she regrets doing homework all the time, she enjoyed many fun moments with her friends, including being the best thing about fellow senior Matt Thompson, and her time as a leader in the Environmental Club. Olivia would like to be remembered for vehemently opposing the arbitrary, fear-engendering, and freedom obstructing dress code.

Olivia Deschaine

"God has never left your side."

- Mrs. May

Next year Olivia will be studying nursing at Oregon State University and is looking forward to the freedom of college and being allowed to take classes that interest her. Olivia has always liked religion classes but especially enjoyed David Haggard's New Testament class. Outside of class, her favorite memories include playing Olive in the "The Odd Couple" and helping things run smoothly as the stage manager for many Marist Theatre productions. In ten years, Olivia sees herself working at a hospital as an RN and eating too much Chinese takeout.

Kaitlyn DiMercurio

"Life is made up of a million little moments that make you smile."

Kaitlyn is looking forward to moving to Corvallis and meeting new people next year when she attends Oregon State University to study engineering. Her favorite classes at Marist were Kathy Yocum's freshman year literature class and Andy Oldham's AP Literature & Composition because these classes were entertaining and relaxing. Kaitlyn will miss the small community, cheering at football games and going on retreats. She also wishes she could have swam in the fountain.

Brittany Dodds

"Life is not measured by the breaths we take but by the moments that take our breath away."

To her classmates Brittany is known as a passionate athlete and a dedicated member of the Mr. Spartan team. It was her visit to the Peace Health Riverbend Hospital NICU that led her to realize her dream job of being a NICU nurse and studying at Oregon State University. She will always remember how math teacher Jeannette Hero changed her life and enjoyed taking ceramics and hanging out with Lex Schmidt. Brittany will miss her softball team, friends and teachers but hopes to be working in a NICU and maybe even driving a white Range Rover.

Gavin Doremus

"Things turn out for the best for the people who make the best of the way things turn out."

- John Wooden

Gavin will be attending Gonzaga University to get a degree in business and hopes to one day be able to use his knowledge and skills to help others and change the world. He will miss being immersed in the Marist community through track & field, Mr. Spartan and the Retreat Team. Gavin is excited to learn and live as a bulldog next year and wishes he could have been allowed to ride sharks in the Marist fountain.

Sean Dorsey

"The ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stands in times of challenge and controversy."

- MLK Jr.

Ever since Sean learned to throw a ball, he has loved sports and he plans to turn this passion into a career with a sports management degree from Gonzaga University. Known for his infamous "peak," Sean enjoyed the community at Marist and will always remember Jay Conroy's AP American Government class because of Conroy's stories, wisdom and guidance. Sean is looking forward to growing facial hair to look like Andrew Luck, forming new friendships in Spokane and eventually working in the sports industry.

Anthony Finn

"I may not have gone where I intended to go, but I think I have ended up where I needed to be."

- Douglas Adams

While Anthony is not sure what he wants to study at Oregon Institute of Technology, he is looking forward to making new friends who hopefully share his love for watching movies. Anthony will miss the love he feels from his Marist family and will always remember his work and friendships from the Mr. Spartan program. He especially enjoyed taking AP Physics with Coach Moser and 16 other dudes.

Will Franklin

"Respect the chemistry."

Will is looking forward to living away from home and having new experiences while studying chemical engineering next year at Lane Community College. He is going to miss the friends he made at Marist and the memories he made while playing baseball and looking for the Fountain of Youth at St. Benedict's. If Will could give one piece of advice to underclassmen it would be to keep at it.

Tiffany Franz

"Laughter is timeless, imagination has no age, and dreams are forever."
- Walt Disney

Tiffany will be at the University of Oregon next year possibly studying business and is excited to go to school without a dress code. Tiffany loved being part of the Marist community and liked the Kissing of the "M" during Welcome Week. She loved her four-year experience on the soccer team because the team always had a good time and was able to laugh at themselves. One of her favorite memories was when Siena Hacker kicked a soccer ball at the goal post and it came back and hit her in the face.

Angela Fuchs

"One of the advantages of being disorganized is that one is always having surprising discoveries."

Angela will be taking her humor and compassion into the health industry after studying medicine at Oregon State University. Some of Angela's best memories were made with her fellow lax babes while playing lacrosse and being with her Marist family. In ten years Angela hopes to be working in a hospital, and possibly have started a family and have either a Rottweiler or a Corgi. If Angela could break one rule at Marist she would grow a beard.

Martha Gehrig

"It's the lessons we learn from the past that show us the right path for the future."

Martha will be attending the University of Oregon next year and wants to use earn a degree in accounting and work for a government or nonprofit organization. Martha is looking forward to dorm life and learning to be independent. She always enjoyed the bonds she created with her basketball and volleyball teams at Marist and she will miss the All-School Masses and retreats because they were fun and eye-opening experiences that helped her grow as a person. In ten years, Martha hopes to have already traveled the world, be an accountant and be raising a family.

Claire Gerber

"Of course it's all in your head Harry, but why on Earth should that mean that it's not real?"
- Albus Dumbledore

Claire has always been passionate about caring for animals which has led her to major in the zoo science program or wildlife rehabilitation at Otterbein University in Ohio. She liked taking ceramics with Lex Schmidt and Ben Rain's interesting and laid back classes. Outside of class Claire made many memories on the Encounter and Metanoia, and during her time in Environmental Club. Claire advises underclassmen to not change who they are to make friends, but find friends who appreciate you for you are.

Raymond Gibeau

"Suckers wanna hate me, fine chicks wanna date me."
- Riff Raff

Raymond is excited to meet new people at the University of Oregon next year while studying business or pre-law. Raymond will never forget playing in his first football game as a Spartan and always enjoyed playing under the lights as his fellow students cheered in the stands. He also enjoyed beating fellow seniors Travis Walcott, Korey Thompson and Jaden Santos in the basketball games they played together. Raymond will miss digital film and his man Tony Rust.

Hernan Gonzalez

"It all works out in the end."

The self-described "salt" of the senior class, Hernan will be moving east next year to study at Notre Dame. Hernan hopes to become a research scientist and save the world one day while he studies the black magic known as chemistry because everyone knows he's a wizard. Hernan loved participating in late-ins and will miss the people he knew along with learning about entropy in AP Physics with Ryan Moser. He encourages underclassmen to take five or more AP classes senior year.

Lindsey Gorman

"You know you're in love when you can't fall asleep because reality is finally better than your dreams."
- Dr. Seuss

Lindsey will be ditching the gloomy Oregon winters for sunny California to attend California State University in Fullerton. She plans to study either criminal justice or psychology and intends to become a detective. Lindsey will fondly remember the adventures she had while touring France and Italy junior year and she loved being a part of the Marist swim team because it challenged her and is something she can continue to do for the rest of her life. In ten years you will find Lindsey watching you for any illegal activity.

Ben Graf

Next year, Ben will continue playing lacrosse at the University of Oregon and will begin his studies to become a physical therapist. While at Marist, Ben enjoyed playing in and attending different sporting events and will most miss spending time with his friends. Along with gaining new knowledge, Ben is looking forward to growing his hair out in college.

Katelyn Grafton

"Don't shine so others can see you, shine so that through you others can see Him."
- C.S. Lewis

Katelyn will be moving south next year to attend California Baptist University in Riverside where she will study health sciences, live close to her cousin and enjoy the sunshine. After graduating, Katelyn hopes to become a physician's assistant in an emergency room and wants to work in the Doctors Without Borders program. Katelyn feels blessed for the time she had at Marist and made the most of it through playing volleyball, being on Retreat Team and being a Mr. Spartan coordinator. Some of her favorite memories come from the friends she has made in the loving Marist community.

Madison Griffin

"Life isn't measured by the breathes you take, but by the moments that take your breath away."

Madison is excited to experience a new sense of freedom while studying business or marketing at the University of Oregon next year and hopes to more fully discover who she is and her place in the world. In the classroom, Madison liked going on walks in ecology and liked Bill Ferrari's World Literature class because he made dull topics interesting. Outside of class, Madison enjoyed being with her friends and going to Friday night football games. After college Madison hopes to be married and start a family.

Kyd Guan

"Be yourself, everyone else is taken."

Even though she only took Ryan Moser's chemistry class for one semester, Kyd liked it so much that she plans to major in chemical engineering at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Kyd's favorite activity at Marist was singing and playing guitar in the rock band. She also enjoyed going out to dinner and will miss spending time with Kate Zhang. In ten years, Kyd hopes to be working on her PhD at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Sean Ha

"Paradise is where I am."
- Voltaire

Next year Sean will be studying at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and plans to major in sociology. After graduating Sean hopes to be able to do social work in the United States and help other people. He will miss the friends he has made at Marist and has fond memories of going on field trips in Doug Schaaf's AP Calculus class.

Siena Hacker

*"A little more laughter, a little less worry,
a little more kindness, a little less worry."*

Siena, well-known for her jocular and her enthusiastic participation in a variety of organizations and clubs, will be studying the social sciences at Scripps College. She will miss Bill Ferrari editing her papers and Jon Nuxoll's enthusiasm for history. Siena will always remember this lax season as her favorite because of her coaches and Katie's bandanas. Siena encourages underclassmen to volunteer because it looks awesome on college applications and it's rewarding. In ten years you will either find Siena in a cardboard box regretting all the work she ever did or chilling in Napa Valley.

Kashi Hall

*"Doing what you love is freedom.
Loving what you do is happiness."*

Kashi's love for movies has inspired him to major in film production at Loyola Marymount University. Though Kashi is excited to meet new people and soak up some vitamin D, he will miss the friends he made at Marist and the 'sick' dances. Being a part of the Mr. Spartan team was an extremely fun experience for Kashi as he got to help a deserving organization and create memories that will last a lifetime. In ten years Kashi hopes to own his own film company doing freelance work and expanding so smaller production groups can create films under his company.

Sam Harwood

Next year you can find Sam continuing to drift aimlessly through life at Central Oregon Community College, where he plans to send his resume to the Power Rangers. Sam will miss religion classes and will remember the times Peter Muilenburg sang to his class in World History. He also enjoyed Renee Cool's Astronomy class because she explained how being a Gemini affects Sam's life. While at Marist Sam always studied, worked hard, and strived for excellence but wishes he could have sat behind Bill Ferrari's desk with his feet up on the desk.

Liam Henshaw

"Be a warrior, not a worrier."

Already a track & field state champion and record setter, Liam will be taking his talents to the University of Oregon next year and is excited to run at Hayward Field. Inside the classroom Liam plans to major in business with the hopes of becoming a corporate lawyer or businessman. Liam's favorite class at Marist was honors literature sophomore year with "beast" teacher Ben Rain. He will miss the friendships he formed while at Marist and the feeling of team camaraderie. Liam encourages underclassmen to find something they enjoy and are good at and stick with it.

Taron Holaday

"Never eat a Fiber One bar before a track meet."

While rooming with Davis Jacob next year, Taron will be studying radiology tech at Oregon State University. Taron liked listening to Mark Chronister talk about infrastructure and teach about the value of the pencil in economics. His favorite class was any science class Ryan Moser taught. He is going to miss his friends while at college but is looking forward to living on his own and having a good job after he graduates from OSU. Taron says he has no regrets about his time at Marist.

Emily Hollander

*"Life is like riding a bicycle. To keep your balance, you must keep moving."
- Albert Einstein*

Emily will be traveling across the country this fall to attend Wake Forest University and study neuroscience or biology. Known to her classmates as spirited and compassionate, Emily enjoyed her Marist years of running cross country, track and playing soccer and tennis and serving on Retreat Team, student council, and yearbook as an editor. She still wishes she could have worn shorts that were more than three inches above her knees but is sure that would have been scandalous.

Adam Houser

*"A day without sunshine is like,
you know, night."*

As an avid hunter and outdoors man, Adam's love for nature has led him to major in ecological engineering with a minor in forestry at Oregon State University. Adam will miss the close community at Marist. Outside of the classroom Adam enjoyed competing in track & field and fishing which took his mind off of all of his freakin' homework. If he had the chance, he would have liked to drag race in the parking lot.

Peter Hu

"Give a man a fish and you feed him for a day; teach a man to fish and you feed him for a lifetime."

Peter is excited to make new friends next year at the University of Oregon while he studies business. While at Marist, Peter learned a lot from Mark Chronister's economics class through the apple story and the way he made economics interesting. Peter also enjoyed Homecoming Week, going to sports games and the Mr. Spartan pageant because it was very entertaining. Peter advises underclassmen to enjoy their high school experience as much as possible because it goes by quickly.

Hannah Hughes

*"Alone we can do so little;
together we can do so much"
- Helen Keller.*

Hannah will enter the nursing program at Gonzaga University in Spokane next year. She will miss the Marist community and the memories she made with her close-knit group of friends, including watching "You Are the One" at Lexi Cross' house. Hannah enjoyed taking Bill Ferrari's AP Language & Composition class junior year because even though it was a challenging class it was very rewarding. Hannah will always remember being a Mr. Spartan coordinator and all the fun she had while helping a great cause.

Rowdy Huston

*"Just keep swimming."
- Dory*

Rowdy looks forward to pursuing his passion for baseball at George Fox University next year, where he plans to major in sports medicine. In addition to playing baseball for the Spartans, Rowdy enjoyed participating in other sports, such as wrestling and swimming. He also liked Bill Ferrari's World Literature class because he learned things he predicts will be useful in the real world. Rowdy also looks forward to having the freedom to grow out his hair as long as he likes.

Shoshanna Hwang

*"Let all you do be done in love."
- Corinthians 16:14*

Shoshanna will continue to live a life filled with joy, service, and adventures as she studies communications and music at the University of Oregon Clark Honors College. Shoshanna served the Marist community through her work on Retreat Team and Christian Leadership Class. Her favorite moments at Marist include the sign of peace during Mass and drawing closer to classmates, teachers, and God through retreats. Shoshanna's favorite teachers were Julie and Bill Ferrari because they challenged her to grow beyond the classroom.

Cam Jack

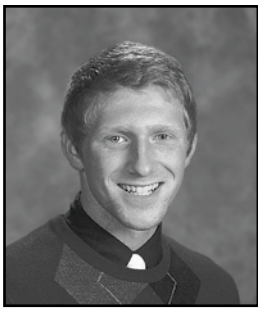

*"Around here, however, we don't look backwards for very long. We keep moving forward, opening up new doors and doing new things because we're curious... and curiosity keeps leading us down new paths."
- Walt Disney*

Baseball has been an instrumental part of Cam's high school career and he looks forward to playing at the next level this fall at George Fox University. Although he may still be wearing white Converse sockless in Newberg, Cam will miss the Marist community. He enjoyed getting to know his classmates better as a Mr. Spartan contestant and especially loved coaching the junior girls to victory over the seniors in Powderpuff last year. Cam remembers Mr. Ferrari's lit class as his favorite course because it challenged him in a way that made learning fun.

Davis Jacob

"Don't go around saying the world owes you anything. The world owes you nothing. It was here first." - Mark Twain

Davis plans to major in engineering at Oregon State University and, though he will miss the Marist community, he is looking forward to experiencing the new surroundings and faces in Corvallis. While at Marist, Davis enjoyed yelling prayer in David Haggard's theology class, engaging in arguments over Charles De Gaulle with history teacher Jon Nuxoll, and playing he-man volleyball. In ten years Davis sees himself looking into a mirror and hopefully having facial hair.

Gavin Jonas

"This ain't no game!"

While Gavin is unsure about what he will study at Lane Community College, he hopes to one day design computers and software. Gavin is also looking forward to honing his handshake skills while in college. He will miss being a Spartan and will never forget all of the memories he has of taking French with senior Matt Thompson. During his time at Marist, Gavin enjoyed prancing in meadows, doing jumping jacks, playing video games, and being on the lacrosse team.

Brianna Kempf

"Don't cry because it's over, smile because it happened." - Dr. Seuss

Brianna is looking forward to being in a different city as she enters the culinary school at The Art Institute of Portland next year with dreams of becoming a professional baker at a top-of-the-line bakery. Brianna will miss seeing her friends five days a week and cherishes the many friendships and memories made through track & field - especially the time Rose Cully placed her blocks backwards. Her favorite classes were ceramics with super-sassy Lex Schmidt and biology with the very-funny Pat Wagner and she loved eating with friends and giggling about nothing.

J.P. Kiefer

*"You laugh at the length of my shorts,
I laugh at your mile time."
- Distance runners everywhere*

Both a student and an athlete, J.P. will be attending Claremont McKenna College to study business and run cross country and track. He will miss the chocolate chip scones served at break and bugging Hannah Hughes whenever possible. J.P.'s favorite activity at Marist was running for the cross country and track & field teams because he believes the guys' distance team runs the school (no pun intended). J.P. would like to leave this advice for underclassmen; whenever talking to science teacher Ryan Moser, speak in a British accent and repeatedly call him "coach."

Emma Kincade

"There's nothing like deep breaths after laughing hard. Nothing in the world like a sore stomach for the right reasons." - Stephan Chbosky

Emma will call Washington home next year as she attends Seattle Pacific University. She is excited about the fresh start and the new people she will meet, though she will miss being able to know all of her classmates by name. She loved partaking in the class dances and competitions and fervently believes seniors should have been victorious over the junior class. In ten years you will find Emma living in her mansion with her husband, two daughters and a son, three cats, two dogs and hamster while enjoying meals cooked by her personal butler.

Cody King

Cody plans to major in business at University of Oregon and looking forward to being able to control his own schedule. He enjoyed working in the office with Tammy May and Denise Smith, and will miss playing football with his fellow Spartans. Cody's favorite class was Bill Ferrari's world literature because the material was challenging yet fun to learn. Cody hopes that someday he will be able to wake up in a new Bugatti.

Devon Kirkpatrick

"A person is a person no matter how tall."

Concordia University Wisconsin will welcome their newest Falcon next year as Devon travels to Mequon, Wisconsin to study occupational therapy. While at Marist, Devon loved playing freshman volleyball and leading the Marist Passion Dance Team and varsity cheer leading squad. She also remembers fondly the bear story Dave Schmidt told on the last day of class sophomore year. Devon will miss the strong community bond at Marist, but is looking forward to one day becoming an occupational therapist and raising her own family.

Erica Landers

*"I believe tomorrow is another day and I believe in miracles."
- Audrey Hepburn*

Erica's love for animals has led her to study to be an exotic animal veterinarian at Lane Community College next year before transferring to the University of Oregon. Erica will miss being able to see the friends she made at Marist everyday along with retreats. Some of her favorite memories include ceramics class with Lex Schmidt and the day her entire class stood on desks in religion until their teacher returned. Erica hopes to one day travel to and explore Africa.

Madeline Landry

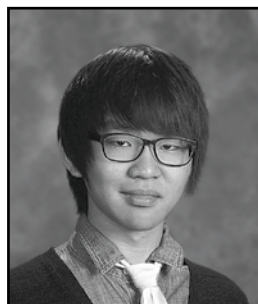

"You know what your problem is? It's that you haven't seen enough movies - all of life's riddles are answered in the movies." - Steve Martin

Madeline will make sunny California her home for the next four years as she attends Santa Clara University and studies biomedical engineering. Known for making extraordinary 'Madeleine' cookies, Madeline loved working at a local bakery Noisette while in high school. Her favorite class was Film Crit. with Ben Rain because she was able to indulge in her love of movies. Madeline also loved playing lacrosse and spending time with her friends. If she could break one rule at Marist she would get her nose pierced.

Bryan Lee

"Let me take a selfie."

Physics was Bryan's favorite subject in high school leading him to major in engineering at the University of Washington in Seattle. He is excited to live on his own but will miss playing League of Legends with his friends. Some of his favorite memories of his time at Marist are of playing bass guitar for Proclaim, and of being in Ryan Moser AP Physics class. Bryan advises underclassmen to study hard.

Brennan Lilley

"Never give up the child."

Brennan is excited to exchange chores at home for classes teaching him how to design race cars while majoring in mechanical engineering at the Georgia Institute of Technology. Brennan has enjoyed running with the cross country team and will miss their inside jokes and close bonds. He will always laugh when he sees that the cone that Carter Detering threw on top of the air vent is still there, or when he thinks about how he accidentally called English teacher Bill Ferrari "dude" junior year.

Spring Lilly

"Never give up on your dreams... keep sleeping!"

Spring is looking forward to hopefully having a valentine next year for Valentine's Day and sees herself selling fruit at a busy intersection after graduating from the Portland State University. She will miss the "We Are One" community of Marist and the shenanigans she got into with her friends, especially those that took place in Freshman Gym class and involved harness exercises. Spring also liked taking ceramics with Lex Schmidt because Schmidt is awesome. In ten years, Spring hopes to be in a hammock in Cost Rica with an iguana name Chico and a piña colada.

Grace Litchfield

"Be what you are and say what you feel because those who mind don't matter and those who matter don't mind."

- Dr. Seuss

While she is unsure where she will focus her studies, Grace is excited to meet new people and have new adventures at Brigham Young University in Idaho. Grace will miss the happy atmosphere she found at Marist and the exciting activities she participated in while in Walt Fox's 20th Century Pop Culture class. If Marist rules would have allowed it, Grace would have liked to host a picnic on the roof of the school and have a big party.

Tanner Lloyd

"There are no secrets in life; just hidden truths that lie beneath the surface." - Dexter

Tanner is excited to take on more "real world" responsibility at University of Idaho while studying food science and technologies. Tanner's favorite memories are of spending time with the Marist community including his time spent preparing for the Junior Boys Encounter with moderator Andy Oldham and being Bart Pollard's teacher's assistant. He also enjoyed working on the Mr. Spartan team because he was able to put himself out there for a good cause. In ten years you may find him living with a pack of wolverines or honey badgers or owning an ostrich ranch.

Elizabeth Locke

"Do one thing every day that scares you."

- Eleanor Roosevelt

An avid photographer, Elizabeth will be taking her keen eye for design to Oregon State University next year to study interior design and photography. Elizabeth enjoyed June Miller's sciences classes, especially when Miller accidentally caught a wall on fire, and loved watching well-known movies in Film Crit.. If she had been allowed to break one rule at Marist, Elizabeth would have liked to TP the school. She encourages underclassmen not to be afraid to talk to teachers and upperclassmen, and make sure to walk through the right door.

Nick Lynch

"It's going to be LEGEN - wait for it - DARY!"

Nick is looking forward to meeting new teammates while playing soccer at the University of Oregon and studying either business and journalism or nursing. He also hopes to one day play soccer professionally. Some of Nick's favorite memories come from playing soccer at Marist including the goal he scored in double overtime against Willamette to win the league championship. His favorite memories in the classroom come from Andy Oldham's AP Literature & Composition because of Oldham's spontaneous bursts of quoting Kendrick Lamar and Biggie.

Kelsey Maher

Kelsey will be studying at the Oregon Institute of Technology in the fall and is excited to be able to buy clothes without worrying about if they're "in dress code." While at Marist, Kelsey loved playing soccer and bonding with her teammates. Some of her best memories were made on the soccer field and include Siena kicking a ball off the goal post and it hitting her in the face. Kelsey's favorite classes were the ones taught by Lex Schmidt.

Nic Markopoulos

"Go every time so others may every time."

Nic is looking forward to moving out and preparing for medical school at Lane Community College next year. Nic liked playing soccer and ultimate while at Marist and will miss the community. He will always remember when Jaden Santos fell into the fountain and chilling in health class. Reflecting on his Marist experience, Nic advises underclassmen to take every chance they get. In ten years, Nic hopes to be driving a nice car.

Madison Martin

"Everything happens for a reason."

Madison plans to take a gap year before attending either a fashion and design school or entering a nursing program. Madison is excited about the freedom and independence the next year will bring, but will miss the welcoming Marist community. Her favorite memories are of dances and of being a part of the Mr. Spartan pageant. Mr. Ferrari's senior World Literature class was Madison's favorite class because Ferrari really knew what he was talking about and made lessons interesting.

"Promise me you'll always remember: you're better than you believe, stronger than you seem, and smarter than you think."

- A.A. Milne

Kassi will be attending Oregon State University to study physical therapy and is looking forward to being on her own at her dream school. Kassi loved playing basketball and being with her amazing teammates and will miss the comfort the Marist community has brought her. Kassi enjoyed finding an artistic outlet in Lex Schmidt's ceramics class and liked the discussions in Bill Ferrari's literature class. Kassi hopes to be working in a VA hospital one day, helping people and doing what she loves.

Paola Medina

"Laughter is the sun that drives winter from the human face."

- Victor Hugo

Paola is excited to make new friends at the University of Oregon while studying human physiology in the hopes of one day becoming a physician assistant. Her favorite class was American Literature with Beth Wirth and she always liked taking Spanish with the hilarious Debbie Cullen. Though she might have skipped a few classes if it weren't against the rules, Paola will miss the small size of Marist classes. Paola encourages underclassmen to be nice to everyone and make lots of friends.

Lucas Mirabella

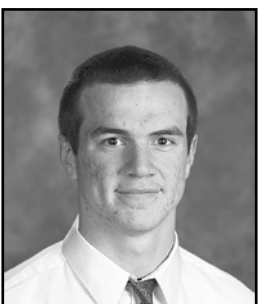

"Fear is un-lived life."

Known for his sense of adventure and mad drumming skills, Lucas is looking forward to living life on his own terms at Lane Community College while studying fish & wildlife and forestry. Lucas will miss rock band with director Jim Reinking because he loves playing music and enjoyed playing the drums with him for the for past eight years. In ten years, Lucas hopes to be somewhere outside and wishes he could have shown tattoos while at Marist.

Clark Morton

"You miss 100% of the shots you don't take."

- Wayne Gretzky

Clark will be studying criminal justice at Gonzaga University in Spokane next year where he will most likely use his new freedom to get pizza at 3 a.m. Clark's favorite Marist memories come from playing lacrosse and football where he always found a strong sense of community -especially on the bus rides to games and playing goalpost volleyball on Thursdays. Clark hopes to one day be working for the Navy or in law enforcement, and encourages underclassmen to enjoy their time in high school and not to stress over the small things.

Caleb Mulhern

"Brick, how did you get a hand grenade?" - Ron Burgundy

Caleb always enjoyed Chris Fudge's robotics class and will be applying the skills he learned to his 3D modeling or CAD design courses next year at Lane Community College. Some of Caleb's best memories come from his time on the Marist swim and water polo teams. His favorite moment was beating the Springfield swim team in the men's 200 free style relay and liked being able to beat up opposing players in water polo games. If rules allowed, Caleb would have grown a Fu Manchu mustache.

Darren Nelson

"It's hard to beat someone who never gives up."
- Babe Ruth

Darren just might see one of his friends from Marist in a class next year at Gonzaga where he will be studying sports management. Darren will always remember the intelligent words Harry Zhou said about marriage and love in religion class. Outside of studying, Darren enjoyed being part of the Spartan student section with the Nucleus. Mr. Spartan was a big part of Darren's senior year as he bonded closer with his classmates on the team and got to witness the button on Garrett Stollar's shorts pop off during dance practice.

Jesse Offchiss

"Some say I have a certain swagger about me, which in Texas we call walking."
- G.W. Bush

Eight a.m. classes will be a thing of the past for Jesse when he attends American University to study intercultural relations and political science. Jesse is excited to move east and start classes no earlier than 10 a.m. His favorite class was AP American government with Jay Conroy. If he could break one rule at Marist he would break the 10 mph speed limit in the parking lot.

Zac Oldham

"When the power of love overcomes the love of power, the world will know peace."
- Jimi Hendrix

Zac will be put in the Kennel at Gonzaga University next fall where he plans to major in computer engineering. He is looking forward to the independence and opportunity for higher learning that comes with college, but will miss the community of Marist. His favorite activity in high school was co-rectoring the Winter Encounter. His advice to freshmen is to get involved and make friends with as many people as possible.

Austin Owen

"If you ain't first, you're last."

Austin plans to study business with a focus on management at Lane Community College next year. He will miss participating in all of the sports he played at Marist and will always remember how much he enjoyed being part of the golf team that won the state title his sophomore year. Austin advises underclassmen to not procrastinate and do their work early.

Maureen Pappin

"Life isn't about waiting for the storm to pass. It's about learning to dance in the rain."
- Vivian Greene

Affectionately known as Mo or Mogiggles, Maureen will be spending her next four years at the University of Portland. She has not yet decided what she wants to study, but is leaning towards journalism. Maureen will miss the loving and caring community that welcomed and accepted her with open arms, but is excited to start a new adventure in Portland. It was hard for her to choose her favorite class, but she enjoyed Film Crit. a lot. Maureen advises underclassmen to always be themselves and not to change just to impress others.

Andrew Park

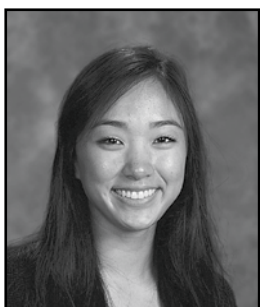

"It's not who you are underneath, but what you do that defines you."

Andrew is ready for the changes his new life at Oregon State University will bring, and is excited to be on his own while he studies engineering. He will miss the close Marist community and playing with the football team that taught him so much about himself. Andrew's favorite class was Ryan Moser's AP Physics class because Moser was a good and funny teacher.

Cory Park

"Goodbye? Oh no, please. Can't we just go back to page one and start all over again?"
- Winnie the Pooh

Cory is excited to explore her potential career interests at the University of Oregon next year along with experiencing a new sense of independence and forming new friendships. She will miss all the people that made her laugh and the close sense of community at Marist. She always enjoyed going off campus for lunch, being with her friends and going on the Metanoia because she bonded closer with her classmates and got away from the stress of school. In ten years Cory hopes to have graduated from a graduate school on the east coast and be enjoying life.

Eric Parker

"Without free will, there is no difference between submission and rebellion."

Eric is looking forward to taking ROTC classes with like-minded individuals at Lane Community College before entering the U.S. Army. Eric enjoyed the structure and teaching style Mark Chronister employed in his American history class. When not in the classroom, Eric liked to play video games to alleviate his stress. In ten years, Eric hopes he will be working on a military base.

Ben Parks

"Treat people Royally and keep moving forward."

Ben is excited to explore the Montana mountains and the buffet-style food at Montana State University while he studies to become a civil engineer. He will miss seeing Tammy May every morning and his favorite teachers have been Ben Rain and Dave Schmidt. While at Marist, Ben's favorite memories come from the Junior Encounter, hiking to find the Fountain of Youth, playing football and Ben Schepergerdes' and Gavin Doremus' Mr. Spartan talent skit. Ben advises underclassmen to get involved -after all, who needs sleep?

Madison Penn

"The true mystery of the world is the visible, not the invisible."
- Oscar Wilde

Madison will be moving south to attend Texas Christian University next year and while she is unsure about where she will focus her studies, Madison is looking forward to exploring her new home. Madison loved being a part of the girls tennis team, Mr. Spartan, and the retreat team and will miss her community of friends at Marist and playing tennis. Her favorite class was the "barn burner" economics with Mark Chronister and lastly, she advises underclassmen to stay true to themselves.

Billy Pollock

"Effort = results."

Billy will be packing his golf clubs and heading south to Los Angeles to play golf for the Lions and study communications at Loyola Marymount University. Golf has always been a big part of Billy's life and some of his best memories at Marist come from playing with the Spartan golf team and becoming State Champions sophomore year. Billy's favorite class was chemistry with Ryan Moser and he enjoyed going on retreats with his friends and classmates. He will most miss the loving atmosphere at Marist.

Danielle Reed

"Keep smiling, because life is a beautiful thing and there's so much to smile about."
- Marilyn Monroe

Danielle will start working towards a degree in hospitality and international business next year at Cornell University with a dream of one day owning her own hotel in a warm and foreign country. Her favorite classes were Jon Nuxoll's history courses and math with Amber Patterson and remembers fondly when Patterson gave her chocolate and discussed the "The Bachelor" with her and her classmate Karlin Andersen. Danielle will also miss being able to get help and advice from teachers at Marist whenever she needed it.

Kriscia Rivas

"Ain't nobody got time for quotes!"

Kriscia will be taking her artistic talents and sweet disposition to Seattle University this fall, where she plans to study biochemistry in preparation for medical school. Though she is excited to get to know new people and discover new places in Seattle, Kriscia will miss the amazing friends she made while at Marist. She has especially fond memories of her time in the girls basketball program, and loved being a part of such an incredible team of people.

Pedro Rivas

*"All is one and one is all."
- Fullmetal Alchemist*

Pedro is looking forward to making new friends at Lane Community College in the fall and while he has not decided where to focus his studies, he is open to new experiences. Pedro enjoyed running cross country and being a part of the Marist plays, and will miss the fun memories he made during high school. He found Peter Muilenburg's world history class to be entertaining and interesting and also enjoyed taking AP physics. Pedro encourages underclassmen to always enjoy the sunlight whenever possible.

Bradley Rochon

"You live once, once."

Bradley is looking forward to enjoying the entirety of his college experience while he studies to become a physician's assistant at Oregon State University. Bradley's favorite memories come from being in the funny Grant Gilchrist's math class, specifically the time he threw pens on the ground to emphasize his point. Bradley is going to miss his classmates and will always cherish the memories he made at the Freshman Lock-In.

Jaden Santos

*"A hero can be anyone, even a man doing something as simple and reassuring as putting a coat around a young boy's shoulders to let him know the world hadn't ended."
- Batman*

Jaden will be entering the Air Force after graduating from Marist in hopes of someday becoming a police officer. He will miss seeing and talking with his friends every day, especially Andrew Park and Dustyn Smith. Jaden enjoyed finding dragons in class and playing basketball with his friends. He fondly remembers the fun times he had in Walt Fox's history class and regrets nothing about high school experience.

Jonah Saraceno

*"I'm ready to face any challenge that might be foolish enough to face me."
- Dwight Schrute*

You can find Jonah on the beach next year, enjoying the warm sun while he majors in business at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. Jonah will miss the friends he made at Marist and the stories Fr. Dave told while subbing in math. Jonah loved the camaraderie of the basketball team and enjoyed being able to play in front of a great student section. In ten years Jonah sees himself being a rich bachelor who breeds huskies and has lots of facial hair that Amber Patterson cannot heckle him about.

Ben Schepergerdes

*"You must always remember: You are braver than you believe, stronger than you seem and smarter than you think."
- Christopher Robin*

Ben firmly believes that AP Chemistry is better than AP Physics which explains his decision to study biochemistry at St. Mary's College of California next year. Ben's fondest memories at Marist came from playing soccer, football, lacrosse, Mr. Spartan and cheering at games. Ben will miss going on retreats and spending his free 5th period with Garrett Stollar. Lastly, Ben advises underclassmen to live fully and walk through the right door.

Danica Shepherd

"You can never cross the ocean unless you have the courage to loose sight of the shore."

Danica will be leaving the west coast shores for Kentucky to attend the University of Louisville to study orthodontia. Danica will miss the Class of 2014 and will always remember going on a date with Jeanette Hero and Brittany Dodds to Yogurt Extreme. Her favorite class was World Literature with Bill Ferrari because he is "sassy" and taught Danica important lessons. Danica also enjoyed Mark Chronister's "Economics Rap." Danica will miss cheering at basketball and football games but is excited to meet new people.

Dustyn Smith

"Shake n' Bake."

Dustyn will keep on loving life next year at Lane Community College, where he plans to prepare for his future career as a policeman. Some of Dustyn's favorite memories from his time at Marist come from his time playing baseball and from Mark Chronister's class, because he is a great teacher who is able to make boring material fun and exciting. Dustyn advises underclassmen to be themselves, and to recognize that even failures make you stronger in the grand scheme of things.

Ethan Smith

"We are one."

Ethan will be leaving the Spartan football field behind to become a Fighting Saint at Carroll College while he studies to become a physical therapist. His favorite memories are of being on the football and lacrosse fields with his coaches and team. Off the field, Ethan's favorite class was math with J-Ro and liked it when history teacher Jon Nuxoll decorated his room in honor of Charles De Gaulle's death. Ethan has especially fond memories of the time Coach Nate got pooped on by a bird.

Garrett Stollar

*"Though he may stumble, he will not fall, for the Lord uphold him with His hand."
- Psalm 37:24*

Garrett will be making the sunny city of San Diego his home next year when he attends the University of San Diego to study business administration. Garrett's favorite activities at Marist included spending free fifth periods with the other half of Stollargerdes and being on the Mr. Spartan team. Garrett will miss ARC Coordinator Tony Huck and is excited to not have six classes each day. In ten years Garrett sees himself eating pistachios in a lawn chair.

Isiah Stolp

"Those are some sick Jordans, bro."

Though he is unsure what he will study next year, Isaiah is looking forward to moving north to attend the University of Puget Sound. Isaiah will miss going to All-School Masses at Marist. His favorite class was AP Literature & Composition with Andy Oldham, whom Isaiah thinks is an awesome teacher. If he had to pick one song to characterize his high school experience, Isaiah would choose "How to be Absurd" by An Existential Cup of Coffee. In ten years Isaiah hopes he will be vacationing in San Francisco.

Lilly Storment

"Everything will be OK in the end and if it's not OK it's not the end."

Lilly is excited to experience the freedom she will have at Oregon State University next fall while studying nutrition. She will miss the unique sense of community she has found at Marist and her group of friends. Her favorite memories were of playing soccer freshman year with a great group of girls, taking Mark Chronister's economics class, and attending the Mr. Spartan program. Lilly hopes underclassmen will enjoy their time at Marist because it goes by quickly.

Jessica Swan

"When I went to school, they asked me what I wanted to be when I grew up. I wrote down 'happy.' They told me I didn't understand the assignment, and I told them they didn't understand life." - John Lennon

Giving up the student section of the Holy Dome for Autzen Stadium, Jessica is excited to cheer on the Ducks next year while studying broadcast journalism at the University of Oregon. Jessica had fun writing essays for Bill Ferrari's AP Language & Composition class along with being a Mr. Spartan coordinator and Retreat Team leader. She also enjoyed four years of playing lacrosse with her home-girl Hannah Hughes. In ten years, Jessica hopes to be married, the owner of a big dog, best friends with Samantha Ponder, and living in a cute house with a flower garden.

Katie Tarrant

"A light heart lives long."
- William Shakespeare

Katie is excited to continue searching for her purpose while majoring in religious studies and/or political science at Santa Clara University. Katie fondly remembers the time she spent working as a newspaper editor and especially enjoyed her AP Literature classes because they played a significant role in her development as a writer and thinker. Though Katie will not miss her 1½ hour commute to school everyday, she will greatly miss the wonderful friends, teachers, and staff that made the drive so worthwhile.

Brennick Thompson

"You never know what worse luck your bad luck has saved you from." - Cormas McCarthy

Brennick is looking forward to living in a different state and having new experiences at the University of Puget Sound next year. While he is unsure about what his major will be, he hopes to one day earn a Master's degree in a subject that interests him. Brennick's favorite activity in high school was playing on the water polo team with many of his friends and attending other sporting events as a fan. The senior trip to Ashland and Jon Nuxoll's AP European History course were also highlights of Brennick's four years at Marist.

Maddie Thompson

"Kindness is the language which the deaf can hear and the blind can see."
- Mark Twain

Maddie will be going to the Big Sky state next year to attend Carroll College in Helena, Montana and plans to study nursing and anthrozoology. Maddie enjoyed being a part of theatre and choir while at Marist and will miss her performing arts family. Some of Maddie's favorite memories come from theater including when Wille Johnson changed his sister-in-law's name to "Dirty Gertie" in the female version of "The Odd Couple." Maddie advises underclassmen to know their limits and not to take on more than they can handle.

Matt Thompson

"You belong in a museum!"
- Matt Thompson

Matt is excited to find new friends to play video games with next year at the University of Oregon's Clark Honors College while majoring in English. He will miss all the people he knows at Marist and playing League of Legends. Matt's favorite class was AP Literature & Composition and he enjoyed playing lacrosse both in and out of season. In ten years Matt is most likely to see himself in a mirror.

Korey Thompson-Falconer

"Fear is not real. The only place that fear can exist is in our thoughts of the future. It is a product of our imagination, causing us to fear things that do not at present and may not ever exist. That is near insanity."

Though he is unsure about where he will attend college next year, Korey hopes to continue pursuing his passion for playing football while potentially majoring in criminology. Korey's favorite memories of his time at Marist are of his team experience while playing football and of his numerous power naps. He will miss the "holy water" fountain in the front office and the company of his teammates. In ten years, Korey hopes to own a profitable business. Korey advises underclassmen to get involved in lots of different activities and to try out a variety of sports.

Liam Turner

"Research is what I'm doing when I don't know what I'm doing."
- Werner von Braun

Liam is looking forward to the independence he will experience at Lane Community College next year while majoring in finances. Liam's favorite activity was falling asleep at the beginning of a class, waking up at the bell, and then napping til the next class. His favorite class was chemistry with the sassy Ryan Moser. In ten years, Liam sees himself living in a $3 million mansion and driving a $1.6 million car.

Emily Vanderville

"Don't cry because it's over, smile because it happened."

Emily will be starting a new chapter in her life at Rogue Community College in Medford next year with hopes to transfer to Southern Oregon University to study teaching and early childhood development. Emily will miss the loving and friendly community at Marist and the bond she shared with the volleyball team. Her favorite moments in the classroom came from watching the panda cam in Walt Fox's class and being in Lex Schmidt's art classes. One day, Emily hopes to be a pre-school or kindergarten teacher and start a family of her own.

Travis Walcott

"Life doesn't come equipped with a seat belt or air bags, so you better hold on."

Travis is excited to not have 8 a.m. classes and be able to sleep in next year while studying pharmacology at the University of Oregon. Travis enjoyed playing basketball with his friends during free time and playing in and attending sporting events.

Isaiah Walker

"You talking to me?"
- Taxi Drivers

Isaiah is unsure about what major he will chose while at Lane Community College next year, but hopes to one day have a job that makes him a lot of money. Isaiah has especially fond memories of his Freshman Lock-In and his favorite class was French with Ryan Baker and he will miss spending time with his friends and playing basketball in Walt Fox's class. If he had to pick one song to describe his high school experience, he would choose "Stay Useless" by the Cloud Nothings.

Alyssa Whalen

"A person is a person, no matter how small." - Dr. Seuss

Alyssa is excited for the freedom and life opportunities she will have at Oregon State University where she will study medicine with a focus on children's health. Some of Alyssa's favorite Marist memories include Dave Schmidt's story about the bear and taking ceramics and crafts with Lex Schmidt because she is an amazing teacher and easy to get along with. Alyssa encourages underclassmen to branch out and really get to know their classmates. In ten years, she hopes to be married and working at a job she loves.

Josh White

"The greatest accomplishments don't come from not falling, but from rising again after you fall." - Vince Lombardi

Josh will gain a new sense of freedom as he moves away from home to study business at the University of Oregon next year. While at Marist, he enjoyed playing football, especially when playing on the Spartan's home turf, and celebrating after wins and is going to miss the football team, going on retreats, and being on the track & field team. Josh also loved how Mark Chronister made economics fun and made a usually boring topic into an interesting subject to learn. Finally, Josh encourages underclassmen to attend all of their retreats.

Austen Whitney

*"Love it, live it, be it."
- Me*

Austen is excited to move north to the "Last Frontier" to attend the University of Alaska Fairbanks and double major in computer science and electrical engineering. He hopes to work with nanotechnology and design new, innovative technology. He will miss the love and compassion of the Marist staff along with his conversations with Tayler Anderson while on Ecology walks. Austen feels Jon Nuxoll is one of the best teachers because he makes history super fun to learn. In ten years, Austen hopes to be married and living in a nice house in London or Vancouver, Canada.

Zach Whitsel

"High risk, high reward."

Zach is looking forward to getting to know his new classmates next year at the University of Oregon and becoming best buds with Jessica Swan. He will miss Jeff Dreiling and being a part of the Spartan student section at games. Zach will always remember acting out the Minotaur scene with Jonah Saraceno in Kathy Yocum's freshman literature class. When Zach envisions his life ten years from now, he sees himself having lots of money.

Ryan Wilson

"If at first you don't succeed, so much for skydiving!"

Ryan will be taking his talents to West Point next year and plans to major in engineering with hopes of flying helicopters in the military someday. He is especially looking forward to being a part of a school sponsored gymnastics team for the first time. Ryan loved leading the winter junior boys Encounter because he got to be a part of the bond created in his small group. Even though AP Physics was extremely difficult, Ryan enjoyed it because he was able to apply his math skills to real life situations and learned so much about how the world works.

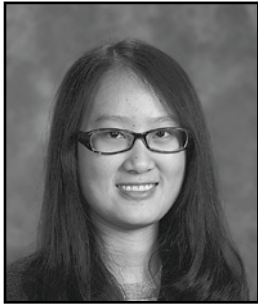

Justin Wisner

Though he isn't sure what he would like to study or what career he would ultimately like to have, Justin is excited to explore his interests next year at either Lane Community College or the University of Oregon. Justin enjoyed playing soccer as a Spartan, because his great team made the experience fun for him. Some of his favorite memories come from the four years he spent in rock band, and at Justin's 16th and final formal Marist Arts concert, Jim Reinking paid him special recognition for his long-term commitment to the program.

Summer Xia

*"When you cry at a trouble, it becomes double.
When you smile at a trouble,
it disappears like a bubble."*

This fall, Summer will be moving over 3,000 miles east to attend Boston University. While she is unsure about what she wants to study, Summer is ready to meet new people and explore her new home. She will miss Marist's excellent teachers and staff, labs in chemistry, and taking classes taught by Ryan Moser. Summer enjoyed being a part of swim team and encourages other students to join. In ten years, Summer sees herself living in China and spending time with her family.

Peter Young

*"Growing old is mandatory;
growing up is optional."*

Peter is ready to take control of his own life next year when he moves to Corvallis to major in mechanical engineering and minor in applied arts at Oregon State University. Peter will miss the awesome students and staff at Marist and the memories he made while on the track and field team. He always enjoyed Ryan Moser's classes, especially AP Physics, because Moser is very intelligent yet sarcastic and funny. In the future, Peter hopes to work in an engineering firm developing a cool gadget, be married, and be raising kids.

Jackie Zhao

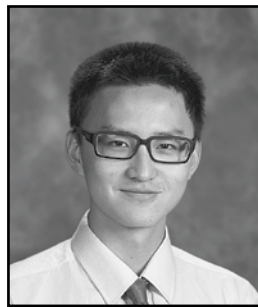

"Stupid should hurt."

Next year, you will find Jackie driving around in his new car on the University of Oregon campus as he enjoys his new-found freedom while studying in preparation for being "a billionaire". Being a part of the soccer team was Jackie's favorite part of high school, and he will always remember the time he scored twice in a game against Sheldon. His favorite teachers were Bill Ferrari, Ryan Moser, and Mark Chronister and he especially liked it when tests were cancelled. In ten years, Jackie sees himself traveling the world.

Harry Zhou

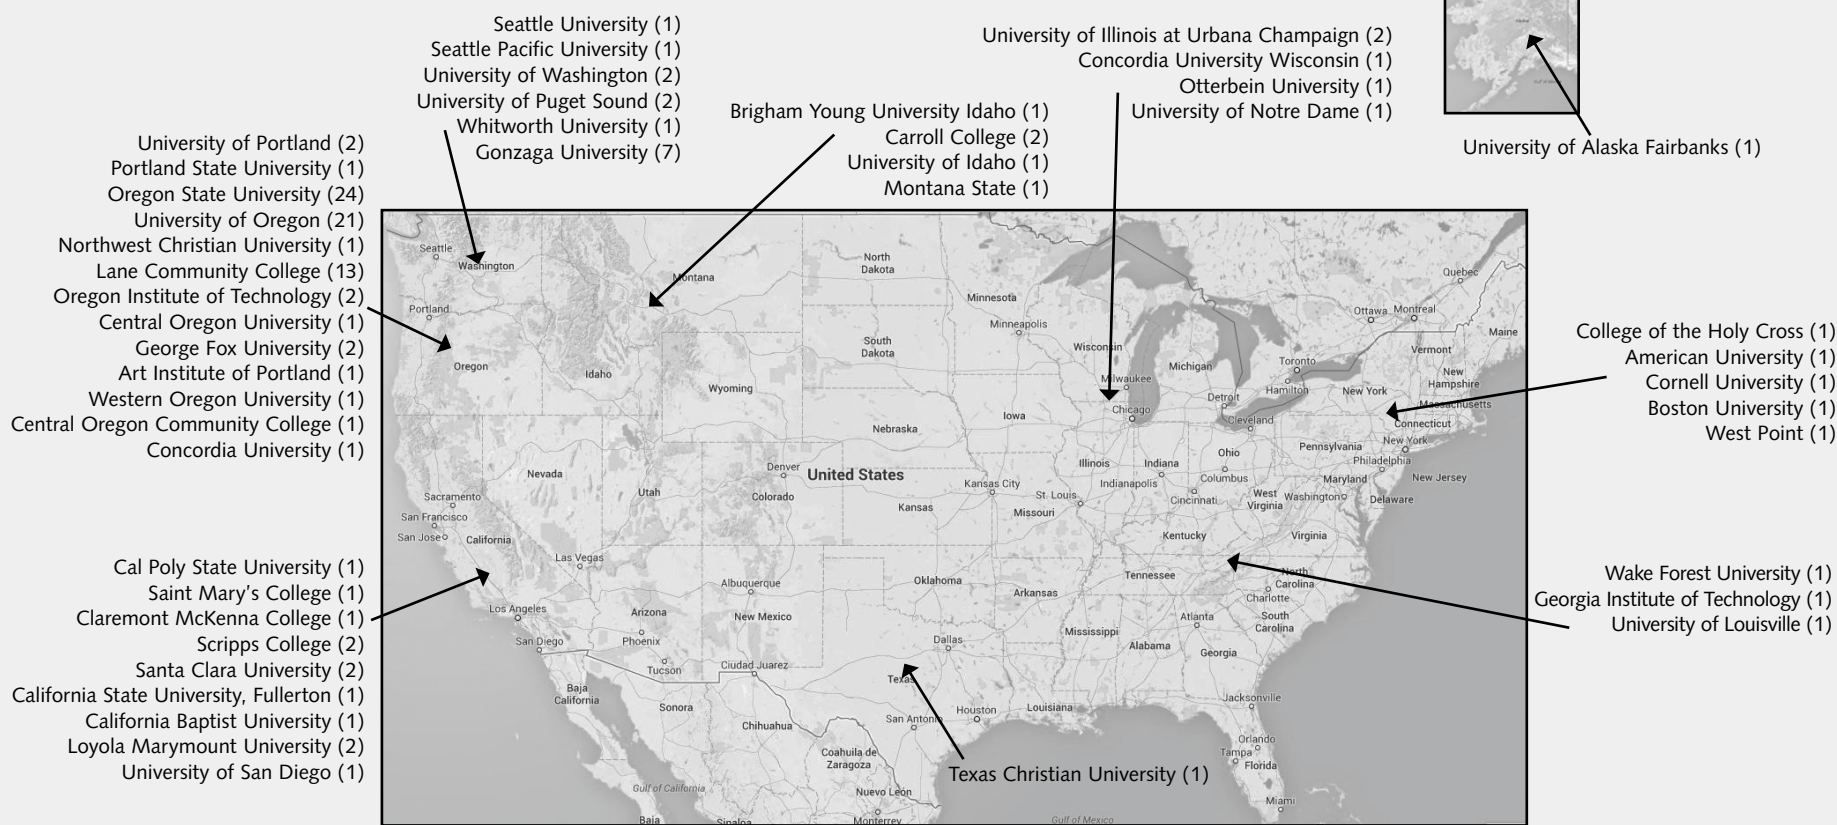

"Still water runs deep."

Harry is excited to participate in new activities and get involved in new ways at the University of Washington next year while he studies computer science or psychology. Described as "wise and talented" by many of his classmates, he enjoyed dazzling the Marist community with his voice at the Talent Show this spring and through singing in the Marist Rock Band. Harry's favorite class was AP Physics because he loves the topic, and Jon Nuxoll was his favorite teacher because of the care he expresses for his students and his ability to teach.

The class of 2014 is sending students to 45 different colleges & universities across the country

OH THE PLACES WE'LL GO!

NEWS BRIEFS

RAISING MONEY FOR THOSE IN NEED

The Carl's Jr. lunch last Wednesday served as a delicious way to contribute $1,100 to Project Starfish. The barbecue and other events, including a community night at Putters and Strike City, have raised a total of $8421.62 as of Wed. to assist families in their efforts to secure permanent housing. The proceeds from tonight's Homegoing Dance will also aid in achieving Project Starfish and MVP's goal to raise $10,800 to help those in need.

STUDENTS HONORED

Last Wed. in a gym filled with parents, siblings, students, and staff, the annual NHS awards ceremony honored both the service and academic achievement of Marist students. Students recognized included senior Ryan Wilson for his acceptance to West Point and senior Kaitlyn DiMercurio for her Kiwanis award for service and hard work.

AUCTION WRAP UP

An auction wrap up party was held last week to congratulate organizers and volunteers for their hard work. The 190 student, staff, and parent volunteers put in over 200 hours of set up time to create the highly successful event. Overall, the Auction raised over $330,000 with a record 550 guests in attendance. It was also announced that next year's chairs will be Larry and Beth Over.

CLASS OF 2014 GRADUATION NEWS

After four years of hard work, the Class of 2014 is preparing for their final farewell to the Marist community, beginning with the Baccalaureate Mass on Fri., June 6 at 7 p.m. at St. Mary Catholic Church. The graduation ceremony will take place in the Marist main gym on Sat., June 7, beginning promptly at 11:00 a.m. Seniors are required to be in the 200 wing by 10:30 a.m. and seating for guests begins at 10:15 a.m.

SCHOOL YEAR COMES TO A CLOSE

The Marist campus was bustling with various activities and costumes this week as students and staff bid the graduating seniors farewell.

The action started Tuesday, when students donned their favorite college gear and logos, then continued Wednesday when students pulled out their Pacific Islander apparel for Hawaiian day. People were seeing double or even triple on look-alike Thursday, when students competed to have as many people as they could wear matching outfits.

Today, students put on their class shirts and gathered in the gym to celebrate Senior Farewell Mass, wishing the class of 2014 luck as they move on with their future. During the Mass, seniors presented underclassmen with advice and guidance on how to survive the rest of their years at Marist.

In a turn away from tradition (as of Wed.), co-ed kick ball will replace the Powder Puff and He-man Volleyball games this afternoon.

Tonight, Marist will be hosting the home going dance at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria, with all proceeds going to Project Starfish. The theme is neon, so bring your glow sticks and be ready for a good time.

MARIST ICON MOVES ON

A look back on 35 years of service to Marist communities across the country

 Garrett Stollar
STAFF WRITER

Tony Huck is a Marist icon and a symbol of humility. After 35 years of selfless service and contribution to the Marist community, he deserves recognition and our thanks as he retires this year. However, Huck has requested that his retirement be a quiet process, a reflection of his heart.

Throughout the years Huck has quietly served the community with selflessness. Huck's time at Marist has been a blessing and his contributions will be missed. Huck came from humble beginnings. He was born in the small town of Methuen, Massachusetts in what he calls a "simpler time." He recalls as a child running around the farm and town with his friends, enjoying the outdoors, and milking cows.

After his childhood, Huck began attending Central Catholic High School in Lawrence, Massachusetts. Being there and learning from the Marist Brothers sparked Huck's desire to become a Brother himself.

Brother Michael Kenny Kieran, an "enthusiastic" yet "demanding" English teacher was Huck's greatest inspiration for deciding to become a Marist Brother. Huck saw Brother Kieran's sense of humility and passion and desired to reflect those same traits.

And so, Huck and about 25 other like-minded young men become Marist Brothers as the Group of '66. While at the Marist novitiate, Huck took classes, worked on the farm, milked bovines, and became a beast at handball.

Huck laughs as he recalls how classes would be spontaneously interrupted by somebody running in the room yelling "the cows are out!" Putting the cows back in their pens always took a community effort.

After two years at Huck finished up his education at Marist College in New York. Then, Huck taught for ten years at Marist High School in Chicago and learned how to work with both parents and students.

After teaching in Chicago, Huck was presented with the opportunity to travel with some Marist Brothers to the West Coast, a side of the country Huck had never seen. Desiring to embark on a new adventure and embrace his calling to serve, Huck said "yes" with enthusiasm and travelled to Oregon.

Huck fell in love with the Willamette Valley: the mountains, the coast, the trees, the rivers, and the change of pace from bustling, industrial Chicago. Upon arriving in Eugene, Huck witnessed the tight community the Marist Brothers had in the residency.

Huck was captivated and moved to Oregon where he taught biology and religion classes at Marist High School for 10 years, before taking a six-month sabbatical in Rome. During this sabbatical, Huck was informed that his brother had died tragically. This shattered Huck's world.

After mourning this loss and contemplating where he belonged in life, Huck felt a strong calling to move back to Eugene where his parents were living. It was at this time when Huck left the Marist Brotherhood in 1994.

Huck devoted his heart to a full time teaching career of physical science and algebra at Marist High School in Eugene, and as Huck says, "the rest is history."

Huck says he "feels blessed" to work at Marist and is "gonna miss it." He loves seeing over the years "faces who keep coming back" to "support the community" and believes this sense of community is truly what makes Marist unique.

After looking back on his change and adventure-filled life, Huck truly believes that "as confusing as life can be...you have to learn to go with the flow."

Huck is far more than a Network Assistant or the man that command students to not eat in the ARC. He is a Marist icon, symbol of humility, man of God and selfless servant. He will be greatly missed by the Marist community.

This past weekend Marist's tennis team competed in Portland and came home with medals in multiple divisions from the 5A OSAA State Tennis Finals.

Juniors AJ Bartko and Austin Tyner won the title in boy's doubles. The win did not come easy; in their final set against Summit, Bartko and Tyner recovered from being down 1-5, and finished 7-6 in an exciting 3rd set tie breaker. Overall, the boys team placed third, due in part to Bartko and Tyner's win.

Sophomore Madysyn Bryant won another girls singles title against West Albany's Chelsea Clark, the same opponent that she defeated last year in the finals. Bryant has yet lose a single match in her high school career. "I love being able to represent Marist," said Bryant.

Seniors Emily Hollander and Madison Penn came in fourth place after losing in the semifinals to a team from St. Helens. Between their efforts and Bryant's win, the girls were secured a second place team finish, just two points behind the winner Ashland.

After nearly two and a half months of golf and an overwhelming number of school days missed, the boys and girls golf teams missed their final two school days of the year for the 5A State Championships

Both teams looked to continue playing well after winning the Midwestern League District Championship at Tokatee Golf Club, but the state meet would prove to be tougher.

The boys finished 5th overall out of 12 teams with a four person team score of 649 strokes for the two days at Quail Valley Golf Course in Banks, Oregon. Senior Billy Pollock led the team with a total of 152 and finished tied for fifth out of 69 golfers.

The girls, at the challenging Emerald Valley Golf and Resort course in Creswell, finished ninth out of 11 teams with a total of 925 strokes. Junior Hannah Yi led Marist with 221 and finished 34th out of 62 golfers

As defending Scholastic Clay Target Program state champions the Marist Shooting Team had high hopes for this year's state competitions and the team had success both individually and collectively.

The three days of competition took place last weekend in two locations: the Cottage Grove-Eugene Sportman's Club and the Siuslaw Rod and Gun Club in Florence. The team of 11 competitors left with a handful of state titles: The team placed 2nd in skeet with help from junior Doug McGirr, senior Jesse Offchiss and junior Jack Kiesewetter who placed 1st.

The top competitors in individual events were sophomore Leah Helfrich who was awarded High Lady for earning the highest score in all three events including winning First Girl in trap. Other standouts included sophomore Jordan Baird who placed 2nd in skeet intermediate division and 3rd in girls sporting clay. On the boys side, Offchiss beat Kiesewetter in a shoot off to win the trap competition.

SPORTS UPDATES

(AT THE TIME OF PRINTING ON WEDNESDAY THE 28TH)

BOYS LACROSSE: The team was scheduled to play Wednesday in a first round Cascade Cup playoff game against Newberg at 5:30 p.m. If they were victorious, the boys will play either Cleveland or Wilson today in the quarterfinals.

BASEBALL: Varsity was on their way Wednesday to play top-seeded Bend in the first round of the OSAA State playoffs after a 9-8 win on Friday the 23rd over The Dalles. If they beat Bend they will play either Sandy or Madison on Friday in the quarterfinals.

SOFTBALL: Varsity was heading to their first round OSAA State Playoff game against St. Helens at 5 p.m. If the girls won they will play either Wilson or Sandy in the quarterfinals today.

MARIST CAPTURES HAYWARD MAGIC

Track and Field earns a State Title at the OSAA State Championships

Natalia Zuliak
STAFF WRITER

This past weekend Hayward Field was an exciting place to be for Marist track and field fans as schools from across Oregon gathered for the OSAA 1A-6A Track & Field State Meet.

The Marist boys took the meet by storm earning their first ever 5A State Title by outperforming the form charts all day. The next closest team was Lebanon who finished 21 points behind the Spartans. The girls tied for 18th place with Dallas and Lebanon.

Senior Liam Henshaw had a successful meet earning 1st in pole vault, the long jump, and in the 110m high hurdles along with 5th place in the triple jump with some of his best jumps all year including jumping 15 feet 8 inches to set a new pole vault state meet record.

"I am satisfied," said Henshaw with a smile, "especially after coming back from an ankle injury."

In one of the most exciting races of the day, the boys 4x100m relay team of seniors Andrew Park and Adam Houser and sophomores Dustin Jones and Trae Gould finished just behind West Albany in 2nd place. "There was a really special bond on the relay team this year, we all connected through the baton," Jones said.

In an almost too close to call race sophomore Jordan Pifer took 7th place and junior Will Knowlton placed 8th in the 800m. Both broke two minutes for the first time in their track careers.

Sophomore Dustin Jones was 2nd in the 400m and placed 5th in the 200m. Junior Trevor Konrady took 8th in javelin just 6" off of the 5th place throw.

Senior J.P. Kiefer placed 5th in the 3000m on Friday followed by sophomore Luke Littleton who placed 10th. Kiefer then placed 6th in the 1500m on Saturday and sophomore Clark Embleton placed 11th. The team of Kiefer, Houser, Gould and Jones placed 7th in the 4x400m relay.

Marist had two medalists from the girls team: senior Bri Kempf took 2nd in the 100m hurdles and sophomore Natalie Hakala took 6th in the 800m.

Juniors Carley Weixelman, Anne Yates, Claire Farrington, and Hakala placed 10th in the 4x100m relay with a season best time of 51.09 seconds.

LETTERS to the EDITORS

Hi guyz,
Egads!
Who is this esteemed individual I found in the 1980 Marist Yearbook?

- Slave to derivatives

Dear slave to derivatives,
That is one of our very own: mathematics department teacher Doug Schaaf. I can only hope to grow a beard like that someday.
- Ben Schepengerdes

Dear Zac,
So you're graduating soon... how does it feel to put the "old" in Oldham?
#havefunwithadultrresponsibilities
-Passive-Aggressively Yours,
An Angsty Freshman

Dear Angsty Freshman,
I will never actually be putting the old in Oldham seeing as my father has already done that. In fact I am changing my name so as to help maintain the youth in my soul!
- Zac Youngham

Dear Gerdes,
So how does it feel to be despised by 25% of the school population?
#pinkstinks
Yours Truly,
- Emily Hollander

Dear Emily Hollander Impersonator,
That means 75% still likes me. I like the glass half full.
- Gerdes

Dear Editors,
Have any of you heard about the Powderpuff petition going around? What's it for and should I sign it?
- Unsure Puff

Dear Puff,
This petition is simply the senior class exercising our democratic right and expressing our desire to defend our Powderpuff title against the juniors. If you too share a love of democracy and Powderpuff I would encourage you to sign the petition. Hopefully we will have a chance to see the continuation of Powderpuff and He-man Volleyball.
- Karlin

Beautiful Karlin,
You're the only editor that I tolerate.
- PJ

Yo, Katie Tarrant,
Actually I lied because you're cool too.
- PJ

Dear PJ,
I appreciate your love, I am glad you like Katie and I better than Thing 1 & Thing 2!
- Karlin
