

Sports Updates

VARSITY FOOTBALL:

09/17 v. Mazama L7-42

VARSITY VOLLEYBALL:

09/21 v. Junction City W3-1

JV VOLLEYBALL:

09/21 v. Junction City L1-2

JV2 VOLLEYBALL:

09/21 v. Junction City L1-3

VARSITY BOYS SOCCER:

09/20 v. North Bend W3-1

VARSITY GIRLS SOCCER:

09/20 v. North Bend W5-0

JV GIRLS SOCCER:

09/20 v. Philomath T0-0

WATER POLO:

09/20 v. South Albany L7-18

CROSS COUNTRY:

Last Friday both teams traveled to the Meriwether Classic. Led by senior Elias Santin, the varsity boys took 12th out of 33 teams. Senior Avery Hedden led the varsity girls placing 36th out of 209 athletes.

DEADLINE FOR HOMECOMING
GUEST PASSES
MONDAY, OCT. 3.

MUST BE TURNED IN AT FRONT OFFICE BY 4 P.M.

LEARNING TO LEAD

A weekend of prayer, games and reflection prepares students for retreat season

This year's Retreat Team participates in a high intensity activity involving a hula hoop. Photo by Becky Boyd

By Rachel McConaghie

The 2022-23 Marist Retreat Team of juniors and seniors spent last weekend at Camp Tapawingo to connect with their faith and bond as a team. Preparing for a year of retreat leadership, students participated in activities led by Marist staff members and alum to help strengthen their skills in small group facilitation.

"One of my hopes was that this retreat would put them in the position to lead future retreats effectively as a team for the rest of the year," retreat leader Dr. Martin said.

Second-time Retreat Team member and senior Greenley Robinson commented that she is excited about this year's team. Robinson went on to say, "Because of the small size of the team, I had a fun time being able to connect more with the juniors."

Seniors Issac King and Sam Thornton, along with junior Asher Pellegrini played guitar for the students and even learned a new song they are hoping to perform at Mass.

The students enjoyed free time in the camp's big gym playing the game 9 Square In The Air, a combination of foursquare and volleyball. "We taught Mr. Nuxoll how to 'dap' people up and how to do the 'griddy,' which was all fun," Robinson said. "Dapping" and the 'griddy' are viral trends popular within the last year.

Time was set aside for each team member to write their own talk and share with the group an experience from their life that taught them an important lesson. "It was a very special time to get to hear one another talk ... a lot of what they shared was very impacting and helpful for other students and the adults too," Martin said.

Marist Parents listen to science teacher Sahra Nielsen discuss this year's class objectives. Photo by Toni Cooper

Parents Go Back 2 School

The values of a Marist education

By Elizabeth Tucker, Jordan Andreasen and Kaylynn Guevara

On Wednesday, Marist parents had the opportunity to visit their children's teachers to gain valuable insight at Marist's 2022 Back to School Night.

While the parents were walking through their child's schedule they were able to meet teachers, ask questions, and experience the environment that their child is immersed in five days a week.

Andy Oldham, Marist's assistant principal, recalls overhearing a parent saying "Jesus my kid walks a lot!" He described the importance of parents getting to walk in their kids shoes and appreciate the high standards of all their classes.

"I really like to read and write. Two of my favorite books this year have been A Sea of Tranquility by Emily St. John Mandel and Outlawed by Sarah North...I'm excited to be back in the sport or water polo in a mentorship capacity. My coaches always meant a lot to me and I hope to create that experience for my student athletes."

—Sierra Webster (water polo)

"I am excited to help establish technical and tactical fundamentals so that the boys can play great soccer every time out. Secondly, I hope to impact how they look at life so they can become champions of character as well...My hobbies are reading, hiking, and traveling. I try to walk 5 miles every day...and last year I read 184 books."

— Jonathon Rea (boys soccer)

"What I'm most excited for this season is watching my athletes grow into strong and confident cheerleaders on and off the sideline. I want to give the Marist community not only the opportunity to become a competitive cheerleader but also see how much of an impact the cheer team can make on other Marist athletes and the community as a whole."

—Regan LaCoste '20 (cheer)

welcome New Coaches

BRING BACK HONEY BUNS

Click the play icon to watch the Spartans talk about the vending machines.

Seniors Andrew Sargent, Jackson Gibeau, and Drew Salnas pose in front of the new cafeteria vending machines. Photo by Rachel McConaghie '23